Streets, Dogs First In Survey Of City

Street improvements and control of stray dogs took top places in the civic survey sponsored by the City Planning Commission and city council in which questionnaires were recently filled in by residents of the city.

The survey listed eleven categories of actions aimed at improving the city, with space for others to be filled in by the person answering the questionnaire.

They were to be listed in order of preference, from 1 through 11.

Questionnaires returned to the planning commission listed street improvements as the most vital requirement, with more placing the control of stray dogs in the "others" space.

Street improvements rated ten votes for first place and ten in second place of preference. Next in line was city-wide cleanup with five votes for first place, eight in second place and five in third, with other votes on down to eleven.

Sewage systems was third, with four placing it first, five placing it third, and others voting for water systems in other spots.

In fourth place, city beautification got four votes, garbage and trash four, fire protection four and water system four. Water system was tops in fifth place while garbage and trash was first in sixth place. Parks and recreation was rated sixth by four votes along with street lighting, four.

In seventh place, police protection was first with seven votes, followed by fire protection, four, and sewage system, four. Parks and recreation was rated eighth by four votes, with three votes going to fire protection, police protection, sewage system, and street lighting.

City beautification, parks and recreation, police protection, and street lighting were placed in ninth place by four votes each. Garbage and trash was the preference in tenth place, with city beautification next in line.

Rated in eleventh place by eight votes was a cultural civic center, which received first place by only one vote.

In the "others" category, listed were trash receptacles at Yoe High, maintenance of historical sites, dog ordinance, housing, new sidewalks, pick up yard trash, alert system for danger, extend city limits, and no mobile homes.

The questionnaire was offered as part of the city's plan to give citizens a chance to suggest how revenue sharing funds should be spent by the city.

Assault Charges Filed After Beating Incident

Charges of aggravated assault were filed by Sheriff Carl Black Monday following the arrest by city police of a Waco man in connection with the beating of his wife.

According to Black, charges were filed in Justice of the Peace Court against Jovito Mendosa of Rt. 6, Waco.

Mendosa was arrested in Rosebud after he reportedly dragged his wife into his car at Vegas Bar in Cameron. City police were notified about 12:30 p.m. Monday and radioed a description of the man and the car to the Rosebud city marshal.

Police Chief Felipe Martinez received word from the Rosebud marshal that he was holding the man, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. He was picked up in Rosebud by Martinez.

The police chief said Mrs. Mendosa was "beaten pretty badly" and she was taken to St. Edward Hospital for treatment.

Herald Now Under Single Ownership

Frank M. Luecke has purchased the half interest in The Cameron Herald of Don Scarbrough, closing a partnership of 16 years in the 114-year-old Milam County newspaper.

Ownership is 100 percent local in the semi-weekly for the first time in about 20 years. Scarbrough and John Cardwell, also of Georgetown, purchased the newspaper, then a weekly from Milton S. Brown, Jr., in October, 1956.

Luecke purchased a one-third interest in July, 1957. Scarbrough and Luecke purchased Cardwell's one-third interest in January, 1961.

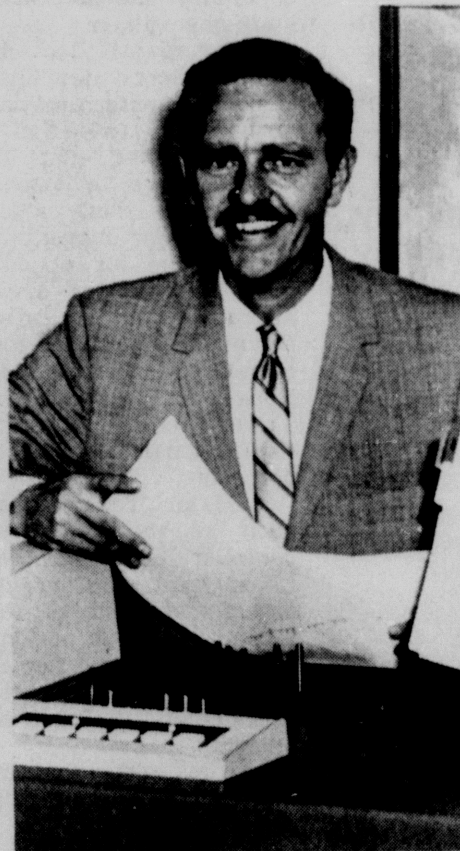

Luecke has been editor-publisher of The Herald for about 12 years. Scarbrough publishes weeklies in Georgetown, Thorndale and Granger and owns Georgetown AM and FM radio stations, which he will continue to operate.

Luecke came to Cameron from Grand Prairie, where he was publisher of the semi-weekly Grand Prairie Banner in 1956.

Scarbrough was twice secretary-treasurer of Texas Press Association and continues to serve on the TPA executive committee. Luecke is co-chairman of TPA legislative committee, and a member of National Newspaper Assoc.'s public notice committee, which he chaired for three years, and former secretary-treasurer of TPA.

During the past four years, The Herald has gone to semi-weekly publication, gone offset, expanded distribution into three Central Texas counties and doubled office and plant space.

Herald editorials and comment have won national and international recognition including a 1970 Golden Dozen award by the International Conference of Weekly Newspaper Editors.

Luecke....
...Communications and Computers

Numerous citations and awards include a citation of appreciation from the International Association of Lions Clubs, Oklahoma and Texas press associations and other groups.

Scarbrough is a "distinguished alumnus" of Southwestern University, Georgetown, where he was editor of the student newspaper.

Luecke is a graduate of the School of Journalism, University of Missouri. He was battery commander as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army artillery, Fort Sill, Okla., news editor of The Purcell Register before coming to Texas in 1956. He was an under graduate member of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism honorary, and is a speaker before journalism forums and students. In Texas, he has addressed students and professionals at Southern Methodist University, Southwestern University, University of Texas and Texas A&M University.

Articles on computer innovation at The Herald have appeared in national publications including "Publishers Auxiliary" and "Missouri J-School Alumni News."

Luecke is listed in "Who's Who in the South and Southwest" and "Dictionary of International Biography."

The Cameron Herald is one of half-dozen oldest newspapers in Texas and one of the nation's most modern in applications of computer technology.

Postal 'Scouts' Show Some Cost Savings

Those half-size red, white and blue postal trucks which are now a familiar sight on Cameron streets have changed the mail carriers job very little according to local postal officials but after 5 months in service they are showing a slight saving in postal delivery costs.

Mail carriers still go door to door, usually parking the vehicle at each block and returning to drive to the next. And Henry Litzman, Cameron's assistant postmaster, says customer fears that door to door delivery would be replaced by curb-side mail boxes is not in the planning for Cameron.

"In some areas of the country postal customers were required to install curb-side mail boxes to be serviced by vehicle delivery," Litzman said, "but complaints were so heavy that the regulation was dropped." He said owners of newly constructed homes will be asked to install curb-side boxes, but if they choose not to mail will be delivered to the door. "Curb-side boxes will be required in new residential developments in Cameron," he added.

In heavily populated suburban areas of California mail boxes are clustered on one corner of each block to service all customers on that street. "This would be the most economical way to deliver mail," Litzman said, "But it is just to unpopular with most postal customers."

The mail vehicles, called Scouts, have eliminated one part-time employee at the Cameron post office with consolidation of a partial route into the four regular city routes. It has also eliminated the need for separate delivery of parcel post.

Litzman said maintenance and gasoline for the Scouts is averaging about $100 per month. "But we really won't know how economical the new system is until we see how long the vehicles last."

The postal 'Scouts', made by American Motors, are purchased through the Postal Department Motor Pool at Austin and Litzman said local officials had not been told the cost of each vehicle.

READY TO GO - Postal worker I. N. Hughes pauses in his day of delivering mail via a new method - using "scouts" trucks instead of the traditional walking method.

With F.M.L.

The first of a series of new developments at your Herald is announced elsewhere on this page.

We hope to develop additional computer techniques on a new facility going into a major university in Texas. And we hope to apply what works to new possibilities in Texas journalism.

With assistance from one of the strongest non-metro staffs in this state, we are going into new areas of journalism. And that is capable of literal translation.

Ad manager George Jones, news editor Bess Jeter, Office Manager Clydell Seaton, production manager Elain Bastow, distribution manager James Barrett, layout specialist Gloria Woodruff, and others, the ten or more Herald correspondents and numerous talents in columnists and news sources and artists assure you a quality newspaper.

These are local people whose interests in Cameron and Milam County enlarge your Herald's effectiveness as a vehicle for effective modernization and growth.

An aspect of a newspaper often overlooked is the fact it is also an industry. Your Herald has grown and developed just like the industries in Cameron Industrial Park. With minimum fanfare, we process raw information, ideas and layouts into finished newspapers, publications, job work, office supply services.

The bulk of any edition of your Herald is considerable. It takes people with skill and dedication. And these characteristics are developed in this staff.

Whenever you buy anything or use anything of a print nature -- at your desk, in your kitchen, anywhere -- it is possible that these people somehow can produce it for you or see to it that you may find it here.

If that is commercial, it is because, beside all the controversy and news packed into this 114-year old newspaper, we are a viable economic entity.

You help keep it that way. With all the rest of the improvements in this area, like the current $6.8 million appropriation for the Gabriel dams, your Herald's 6,200 square feet of modern newspaper is aimed at serving the Milam area. And we consider this the healthiest Cen-Tex era since cotton was a mere prince before the Civil War.

Narrow Approval Seen For Embattled Alaska Pipeline

By Robert Kearns

WASHINGTON
Reuter -- Construction of the long-delayed trans-Alaska pipeline got a small shove forward when the Senate narrowly approved legislation to cut off further court challenges to the controversial plan to tap Alaska's huge oil reserves.

But leading environmental groups, who have successfully blocked the project on grounds that it would damage Alaska's unspoiled terrain, say the fight is still on.

Even Sen. Henry Jackson (D.-Wash.) who led the floor fight for Senate approval of the 800-mile pipeline, conceded that continued court tests could block the start of construction on the line until beyond next spring.

Sponsors of the project say that actual construction of the four billion dollar 789-mile pipeline from Alaska's barren Arctic region to the warm weather port of Valdez on the south will take three years to complete, suggesting that the earliest oil would start flowing to the United States in late 1977 or early 1978. Tankers would carry the oil on to the west coast of the U. S.

If construction begins next June -- and that is the most optimistic timetable -- the fuel-hungry United States will have waited more than 10 years since major oil companies first tapped the vast Arctic deposits.

The big oil companies hailed the Senate approval of the pipeline as an important step in the effort to overcome the U. S. energy shortage and expressed confidence the House if Representatives would pass similar legislation.

The chief lobbying group for the large oil companies, the American Petroleum Institute, said in a statement that the oil companies would ship about two million barrels of oil a day through the line from the estimated 10,000 million barrel reserves already discovered.

Three of the world's biggest oil companies have dominated development of the north slope since 1968 and hold about 80 per cent of the shares in the Alyeska Pipeline Company, formed to build the pipeline.

British Petroleum, the Exxon Corporation and the Atlantic Richfield Company appear to have staked out the best positions on the north slope, after outbidding most other major companies in a 900-million-dollar lease sale held by Alaska in an Anchorage auditorium in 1968.

But whether they and the rest of the oil companies will be able to cash in on their discoveries as soon as they would like still remains clouded in spite of growing alarm over the nation's energy problems.

John Dienelt, for one, pledged that environmental groups will step up their lobbying efforts in their long running battle with the oil companies.

As the leading counsel to the Environmental Defense Fund, Dienelt said he was disappointed with the Senate action and promised to consider possible further legal action.

The defense fund and other conservation-minded groups won a victory this April when the Supreme Court upheld a lower court ruling barring construction of the Alaska pipeline since it would exceed the permissible federal law on right-of-ways, which is limited to 50 feet.

The Senate action would order permits to allow the Alyeska Company to use a wider right-of-way for construction of the pipeline. Similar legislation, passed by a House interior subcommittee, is co-sponsored by 21 congressmen and is given a good chance for passage by the full House.

But Senator Jackson raised the prospect that a provision of the approved bill blocking any further court delay of the project could be challenged all the way to the Supreme Court on grounds it might violate the constitution.

In addition, Jackson would not rule out an antitrust suit against the three bit Alaskan oil developers based on their control over the pipeline.

Out Of 'Sync...'

Your Herald's efforts in crime coverage over the past decade and a half find justification in historic need for it.

According to "Bloodletters and Badmen: A Narrative Encyclopedia of American Criminals From the Pilgrims to the Present", Texas in 1850 put out a "wanted" list of 12,000 criminals, emphasizing there were "40 counties not heard from." We are not informed on whether Milam County reported or not.

Jay Robert Nash is the author.

We do know in the early 1960s an inordinate amount of violence occurred in and around the Milam area or involved former Milam Countians.

Staffers covered shootouts, showdowns, manhunts, murder-suicide in this part of Central Texas while the County Jail was spilling, fortunately, the least culpable of the time.

Interesting thing is the violence of the late 1950s - early 60s was traceable to a Texas society in flux, the cotton era fading. Violence of Nash's criminal encyclopedia in 1850 Texas is traceable to the clash of opening frontiers, predating even the historic cattle drives of the post-Civil War days.

We missed the 1850s. We saw the 1950s - 60s. Texans who think justice is that simple are a hundred years late or, at best, out of "sync."

M-M-M Good...

Congratulations to Waco for landing one of the largest industries to come into Central Texas in recent years.

We refer to the 220,000-square-foot M&M Mars, Inc., candy plant.

The concern is buying 150 acres in Waco industrial area for a plant initially employing 250 people, which is scheduled to become a major Waco employer.

Waco leadership has been working on this prospect for months, we understand, and are now able to bring on project in fact.

Wonder if that's what they mean now in Waco when they say: "M-M-M good?"

Or would that better apply to the major canning processor who went to Paris (Texas) a decade ago?

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

PORNOGRAPHY NOW DECIDED LOCALLY

Rep. Jack Edwards (Ala.) "... The Supreme Court's recent decision on pornography has supplied our States and local communities with some much-needed ammunition to rid bookstores and movies of obscene matter. ...

"The Court reversed its previous trend toward permissiveness and laid down tougher new guidelines that can be used by the States and local governments in determining what books, films, or pictures may be banned as pornographic.

"No longer must it be proved that a work is "utterly without redeeming social value" before it can be prohibited.

"Local community standards will now be used in determining whether material is obscene. As Chief Justice Burger put it in the Court's majority opinion;

"To require a state to structure obscenity proceedings around evidence of a national community standard would be an exercise in futility."

"The Chief Justice explains that it was not realistic nor constitutionally sound to read the first amendment as requiring that the people of a city like Mobile, Ala., have to accept public depiction of conduct found tolerable in cities such as Las Vegas or New York. ...

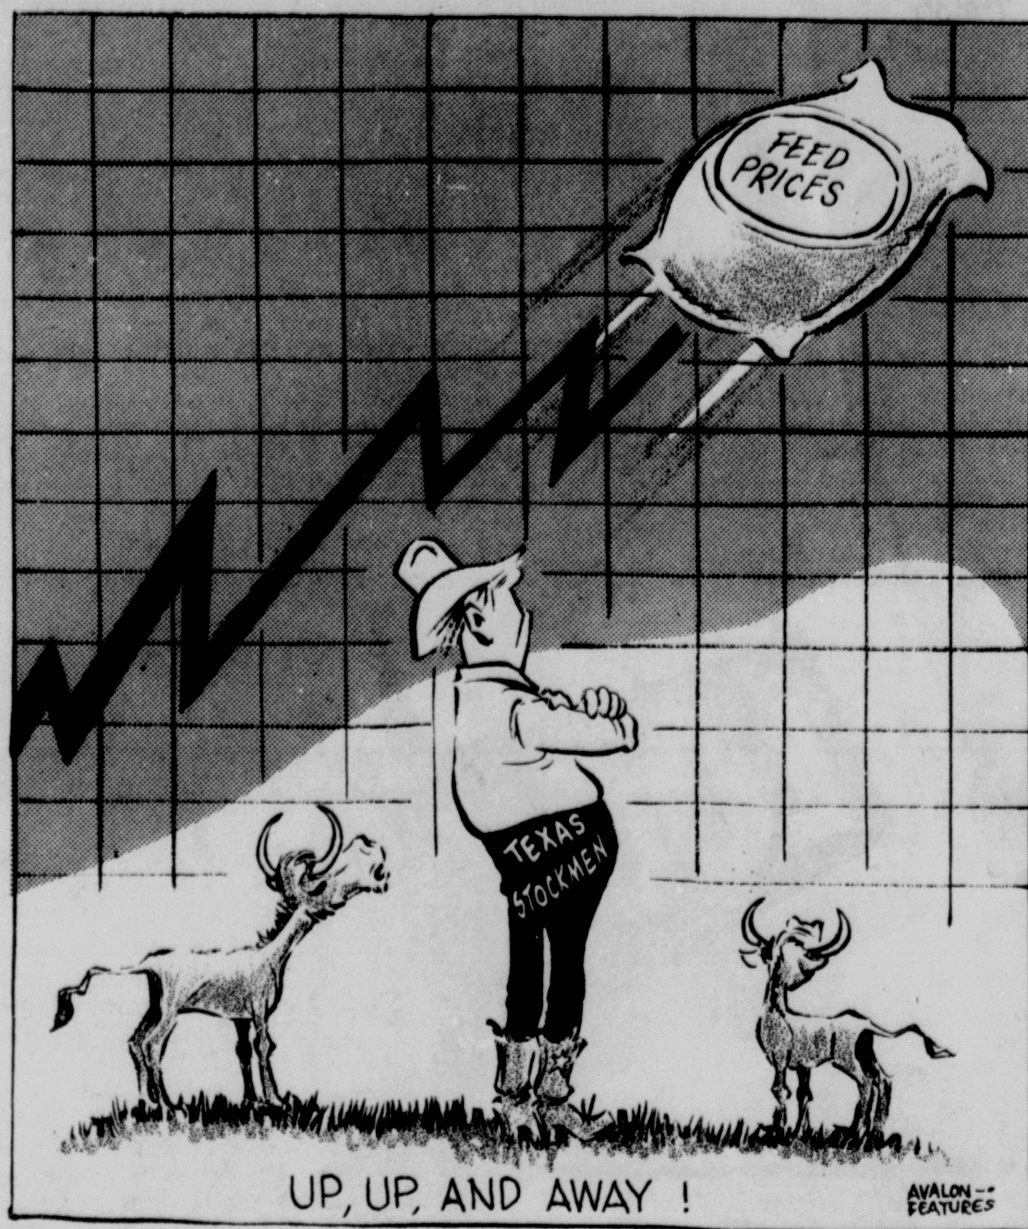

"In holding that a jury may judge a work's obscenity by standards that prevail in its community, the Supreme Court also listed a number of guidelines for State and local courts to follow.

"The decision was by 5-4 vote. All four of the Justices appointed by President Nixon voted with the majority: They are Chief Justice Burger, Associate Justices Harry Blackmun, Lewis Powell and William H. Rehnquist. They were joined by Associate Justice Byron White ...

"It's good news to the many citizens who ... have tried in vain to rid our communities of smut."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

The television "talk shows" will undoubtedly present many individuals who will voice violent disagreement with the Supreme Court's decision. Nevertheless the local citizens are now in the driver's seat.

Texas Government Better Off Than In Cabinet Form

By Bill Boykin

Texas may be better off under its present type of government than the so-called cabinet form being advanced in preparation for constitutional revision, according to Texas Research League.

League staff members in a new report to the Constitutional Revision Commission point to advantages of the present system and offer these key observations:

* While there is room for improvement, Texas government is not the "administrative jungle" portrayed by critics. There are 174 legal entities which might qualify as state agencies, but fewer than 30 of them control 99 per cent of money and personnel in state government.

* Texas still has one of the most economical big state governments in the nation. Ohio and Missouri rate slightly lower, but Texas spends more in support of its schools than those two states. Major suggestions by the League for economies have been in the areas of education and welfare financing. Overhead administration and control functions cost 1.9 per cent of Texas' total budget, while the national average is 2.6 per cent.

* Major Texas agencies such as the Highway Department, Education Agency, Department of Corrections and Department of Public Safety rate high nationally. The League found few agencies in other states "clearly superior" to Texas counterparts.

* While advocates of the cabinet theory claim it provides for holding the governor accountable for all aspects of government administration, political realities dictate that he can be held accountable at the polls only once or twice. Further it is difficult for voters to assess thousands of acts by the chief executive during any four years.

* Whether authority to appoint 20 cabinet officials but no sub-cabinet-level personnel would strengthen the governor in policy-making is debatable. Merit system employment to insulate state employees from the spoils system is considered part of the cabinet theory. This means echelons below the cabinet level are beyond the governor's control.

The present pattern of part-time boards, according to the League, provides opportunity for participation in government by many key citizens, who, in turn, provide a powerful reservoir of support for a governor's policies. The League suggests more fiscal power for the governor and authority to order governmental reorganization subject to legislative veto.

PRESCRIPTIONS STUDIED
Computers are being used by the Texas Pharmacy Board to determine the top 100 prescription drugs being sold in this state.

Under new state law, H. B. 750, druggists must post the prices of the 100 most prescribed drugs at their counters this fall.

The new law will also prohibit advertising about "wholesale" "cut rate" prices, and limit drug stores to advertising about services, keeping "family records" and dangers of mixing certain types of drugs.

Consumers will be able to check the prices of the top 100 most common drugs at each prescription counter, states Joe Arnette, Texas Pharmacy Board, who is using the computer method to make the state-wide survey.

AUTO RATES CUT

True to its promise the State Board of Insurance ordered an average statewide reduction of 4.3 per cent in private auto coverage premiums, estimating 90 per cent of motorists will save at least $25 million. New rates are effective August 27.

Further, according to Board Chairman Joe Christie, the competitive rating law September 1 will mean further savings for many. Christie said one company has indicated it will ask authority to cut its rates 15 per cent across the board when the competitive rating law takes effect.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Washington can't be expected to think of everything and I'm not blaming anybody but somebody has left out a vital part of Phase Four of the economic program.

Take chickens. If it costs a farmer 35 cents worth of feed to produce a pound of broiler for which he, under the price freeze of Phase Three, could charge only 28 cents, you can see it would not be long before the country was out of fried chicken.

Therefore Phase Four has corrected this, allowing the price of chickens to go up, which it did immediately. The farmer is now charging more, the wholesaler is passing the increase on to the retailer, the retailer is passing it on to the customer.

But who can the customer pass it on to?

That's the point the economic experts are leaving out, and I have a suggestion which I thought up while the committee members were out to vote.

One way of course would be to give everybody a wage increase and it'll work in some segments, but it's hard to give a wage increase to somebody who is living on a fixed income. Where would you get the money? Now even the Committee to Reelect the President would have that much cash floating around. So, where can the customer pass the increase in the cost of chicken to?

There's just one place. His income tax. If your fried chicken last year cost you $103 and this year it runs to $154, take the difference, $51, off your income tax. The same thing would apply to all other increases in all other lines of food, clothing, shelter, interest, soda water, etc.

But there's one other step necessary, I've just figured out. No use letting the committee leave to vote for nothing. Naturally, with everybody taking all these deductions, the Federal government is going to have its income cut short, and you know we can't allow the government to go in debt. So it'll pass this shortage on to the people in increased taxes the next year.

That solves it. That completes the circle and all we have to do is keep the wheel turning from now on. But watch out for those hills.

Yours faithfully
J. A.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Luecke:

Just this morning, I received a Blood Bank Donor's receipt from Scott and White Hospital notifying me that I had received credit for four units of blood.

I have been reminded during my recent illness of the importance of the blood bank. Blood is something you can't go out and buy if there isn't any. And there wouldn't be any but for the wonderful people who give that others might live.

Thank you for giving me this opportunity to say "thank you" to the blood donors of Cameron and vicinity.

Sincerely,
Mrs. O. W. Whittington

Dear Frank:

I enjoyed very much seeing and visiting with you.

I had the opportunity to meet many of your local citizens and was greatly encouraged by their interest in my campaign.

Also, I want you to personally know that I would deeply appreciate your help and the help of your newspaper in my race.

If elected, I promise to operate the office in an efficient and orderly manner and in a way that you will be proud of the State Comptroller.

Nuclear Power Technician Training Offered At TSTI

WACO Nuclear power technician training will be offered for the first time this fall on the James Connally Campus of Texas State Technical Institute.

The program is the first technician training program of its kind in the nation specifically designed to train technicians to help solve the national energy crisis. The energy crisis has spurred the development of six nuclear powered generating facilities in Texas at the present time. Many more are on the drawing board. The first of these facilities is to go into operation in January 1980.

Each of the facilities will require approximately 50 technicians for each reactor site.

Two Texas political figures, Governor Dolph Briscoe and U. S. Representative W. R. "Bob" Poage of Waco, praised the state's first post secondary technical school for the undertaking.

Governor Briscoe said, "I am pleased and proud that TSTI is instituting the nuclear power technician training program, the first of its kind in the nation. With the current energy shortage, it is vital to the future of our state and nation that we develop our nuclear power capabilities. It is also vital that we provide the much needed technical training for the personnel who will operate these new nuclear power plants, and I am confident that the TSTI training program will be invaluable in meeting these stringent training and educational requirements."

Chairman of the U. S. House Agriculture Committee, Congressman Poage has just conducted an investigation into fuel shortages for farming in the U. S., and is therefore knowledgeable of the present energy crisis facing the nation.

The Congressman joined in announcing the training by saying, "Nuclear power technicians are much in demand at this time and I am pleased to see Texas State Technical Institute take a lead in this important training on the Waco campus."

Through the Southern Interstate Nuclear Board, State Tech and the Technical Education Research Center working for four years making manpower studies and developing a plan for training programs. The training program will be developed with the assistance of a state wide advisory committee with representation from the utilities.

Nationally, manpower needs for nuclear power technicians are estimated to be 9,165 by 1982 at the present level of development. The total number of both operable nuclear reactors and reactors under construction had reached 195 as of April 1973.

The two year program on the James Connally Campus will result in an Associate of Applied Science degree. It will include related support areas such as occupational safety and environmental protection.

TORNADO PATH

The average tornado in the United States wreaks its havoc along a path of about four miles, the National Geographic Society says. But in 1917, one twister left a trail of destruction for nearly 300 miles through Illinois and Indiana.

SUNDAY DENOUNCED

The American concoction of ice cream topped with syrups and sauces originally was called a Sunday and promoted as a special desert for that day. When ministers denounced such indulgence on the Sabbath, the name of the treat was changed to ice cream sundae.

Growers Association Elects Directors

NEW BRAUNFELS
New officers and directors for the Texas Pecan Growers Association were elected at the final business meeting of the producers' group here last week.

Officers will remain the same, as all were reelected. They include Tabb Harrell of Austin, president; Ray Peeler, Jr., Bonham, vice president, and Dr. J. Benton Storey, College Station secretary-treasurer.

Directors for the state's four districts were named, along with a director-at-large, Ed Pendell of Eagle Pass.

Serving District I will be Alfred Hulbert of El Paso and Ray Barrett, Jr., of Midkiff. Named for District 2 were Worth L. Matteson III of DeKalb and Robert Foree, Jr., Dallas. In District 3, directors include L. D. Romberg of Brownwood and Swain Rodgers of Lubbock. Serving District 4 will be Fred F. Weyrich of Eagle Pass and Bennie E. Urbanovsky of Wharton.

El Paso will be the host city for the 1974 meeting, set for the third week of July.

Special features of the conference just concluded were the Texas State Pecan Show, which features 460 entries or about 100 more than last year, exhibits of equipment, and an educational field tour.

"Forty-six different pecan varieties were featured at this year's show. Three classes -- the in-shell, shelling and native pecans -- made up the big show," explained Dr. George Ray McEachern, show superintendent. McEachern is assistant horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Cobb Is Chairman Of Cotton Group

Texas Farm Bureau President J. T. (Red) Woodson has announced the appointment of a seven-member TFB Cotton Division Advisory Committee.

Darrell Cobb, cotton and grain farmer from Rogers in Bell County, has been named chairman.

Other members of the committee include: Ervin Baumann, Midland; Dan Griffith, Haskell; Herman Henry, Weslaco; Ralph Petersen, Danavang; Ray Sawyer, Hillsboro; and Doyce Turner, Muleshoe.

The major responsibility of the committee is to develop a program of work for the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Division which was established earlier this year, Woodson said. Its recommendations will be advisory to the Texas Farm Bureau Board of Directors, he said.

Horse Show Set Aug. 11

The Mix-Tex Quarter Horse Breeders Association will sponsor its fifth annual Registered Quarter Horse Show Saturday, August 11 in the Belton Rodeo Arena. The show is approved by the American Quarter Horse Association.

In addition to the regular show, there will be four classes in a Weanling and Yearling Halter Futurity with horses being entered from as far away as Hattiesburg, Miss. This is the third year that a Halter Futurity has been sponsored and is the only Weanling and Yearling Halter Futurity in the Central Texas area.

The events will consist of the usual 21 halter classes, four Youth Activity events, the four Futurity classes, ten registered performance classes, and an open jackpot barrel race.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES Baling Wire Shortage Seen

By Bill McCutchen

A baling wire shortage, may sound humorous to city folks, but it is definitely no laughing matter for farmers and ranchers. We have a good hay crop this summer and much may not be baled because there is no baling wire to be found.

This is another example, I believe, of another artificial shortage being created.

It's hard for me to believe there aren't some warehouses full of baling wire that would be available if they could get the price they wanted for it.

I suspect there will be baling wire for sale after the price freeze lets up, but that will be too late for much of the hay crop.

WINTER PASTURES

I am sure that most producers can recall last winter easily and the high price of Range Cubes and other cattle feeds and the shortages at times, not to mention having to haul hay daily to livestock. If you can remember those times and don't want to get in the same bind, I would suggest starting now to plan your winter pastures.

For those of you that will be planting on prepared seedbeds, you should be getting them in condition now. Planting should be done on September 1st. General fertilizer recommendations would be 80-80-0 on blackland or 80-80-80 on sand.

Whether you are using Oats, Wheat or Rye for grazing, consider using Gulf Ryegrass with it as a mixture. Cereal grains should be drilled in, but Gulf Ryegrass is a fine seed and should be sown on the top of the ground.

I would also urge you to get your Oat, Wheat, Rye or Gulf Ryegrass seed early. Indications are that they are going to be high and scarce.

Don't wait until after the danger of fall armyworms is past to plant. Winter pastures are grown in the fall and grazed in the winter.

You will want to fertilize again in January with about 60-0-0. Limit grazing on this high quality pasture. Don't waste this pasture on dry cows, graze only cow-calf pairs or stocker cattle.

The other alternative is sod-seeding on bermuda grass. This works well in sandy areas. Remove the bermuda growth by September 15th by baling, grazing or shredding. Disk lightly two times or enough to expose bare ground.

On September 15, plant 15 pounds of Gulf Ryegrass using 50-100-100 pounds of fertilizer on sand. When winter pasture is established, approximately three weeks, topdress with 75-0-0.

Grazing management would be the same as above.

CORRUGATED STEEL DRAINAGE PIPE

It's Strong & Easy to Install. Uses include road culverts, ditch crossovers, stock water supply lines, and driveways. Durable zinc-coated corrugated steel pipe is available in diameters 6 to 120 inches. Shipment can be made 1 to 3 days notice.

Milk Production Declines As Predicted ... Broilers, Eggs Also Show Declines ... Citrus Tree Plantings Increase ... Cattle Feeding Increases.

Milk Production in Texas as well as the nation is following a year-long pattern of declines, which has been predicted by dairy group spokesmen. Texas milk production for June is 5 per cent below the previous month's production, although it is slightly above June of a year ago.

Nationwide, milk producing is 2.5 per cent less than a year earlier. Production during the first half of this year is running 2 per cent under 1972. The number of milk cows, nationwide, also has declined by 2 per cent.

The cost price squeeze in the dairy industry is also dramatized in the milk-feed price ratio. That ratio is down 27 per cent from a year ago. It is also the lowest June ratio since 1955.

EGG production in Texas during June is down 4 per cent from a year ago and 5 per cent under last month. Nationwide, a decrease of 5 per cent is noted from the same month a year ago.

Broiler chick hatch in Texas during June is down 7 per cent from a year ago and 10 per cent under the preceding month.

The turkey poult hatch for Texas during June is up 19 per cent from a year ago, but is 9 per cent under a month ago.

The June hatch of egg-type chicks in Texas is up 34 per cent from a month ago and 3 per cent above a month earlier.

CITRUS tree plantings are on the increase in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Licensed citrus nurserymen and private citrus nurserymen in the Valley reported 230,000 citrus moved from nurseries to groves during the period July 1, 1972 to June 30, 1973.

This is 12 per cent above the previous year when 206,000 trees were set out; these totals reflect new plantings in commercial groves.

Of the total, about 98 per cent are grapefruit; about 2 per cent oranges; less than 1 per cent lemons, limes, tangerines and tangels.

The number of grapefruit trees planted was up 15 per cent from the previous year. More than half of the 1972-73 plantings were of the Star Ruby variety.

Movement of orange trees to groves continues to decline. Plantings at 4,000 trees were down 50 per cent from the previous season and far below the planting rate of prior years.

CATTLE on feed in Texas and the nation continues to increase. As of July 1, a total of 2,335,000 head of cattle and calves were on feed in Texas. This is 10 per cent above a year ago, 4 per cent above June 1, and 3 per cent above April 1.

Large feedlots--those with 1,000 plus capacity--numbered 234. Steers accounted for 1,513,000 head of the cattle on feed.

Cattle placements on feed in Texas feedlots from April 1 to July 1 were down 11 per cent compared to a year ago. Cattle marketed out of Texas feedlots is 4 per cent above marketings compared to the same period of a year ago.

Feedlot operators intend to market 1,238,000 cattle between now and September 30. This would be 6 per cent more than marketed during the same quarter last year.

Nationwide, cattle and calves on feed is up 2 per cent from a year ago. Cattle feeders plan to market about 1 per cent more than those actually sold during the July to September period of a year ago.

Integrated Cattle Feeding Could Boost Farm Income

An integrated system for feeding cattle could mean quite a bit more money in the cattleman's pocket, according to Dr. Donald Faris and Ed Williams of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The more common open market system sometimes results in higher marketing costs per head and more stress caused by transfers--resulting in weight loss and some cases of sickness and death, the Texas A&M University System researchers said.

The integrated system, in which the whole process from the weaning age calf to slaughtering is pre-arranged, lowers marketing costs and cuts down on the transfers and resulting losses. The idea is to plan and organize for minimizing stress and time in the market channel.

The potential advantage of the integrated system, Faris and Williams found, came to $9 to $11 per head in savings during 1966-70. About half of that was saved marketing costs.

They developed estimates for several types of cattle. The standard was a choice steer evaluated from 350 to 1050 pound weights.

The greatest savings came from calves weaned at a light weight. The smaller animals are more sensitive to stress--giving the integrated system the advantage.

Savings for heavy weaned calves ready to move directly to the feedlot were only one-third as much, they said.

Integrated systems in cattle operations are only a small part of the total business but appear to be becoming more popular, said the professor and former research assistant in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology. Not all producers can take advantage of this, but to the extent the industry can design its business to reduce stress and transfer charges, costs can be reduced.

Ceremony Unites Steadman-Barton

Miss Elizabeth Suzanna Steadman became the bride of Mr. Jerry Don Barton at 6 p.m. Saturday, July 21, in the Main Post Chapel, Ft. Hood. Chaplain Grover Devault officiated and Miss Debbie Hosek of Rockdale presented wedding music.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond D. Phillips of Cameron, is a 1972 graduate of C. H. Yoe High School and is presently attending Central Texas College, A. D. Nursing program, in Killeen. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Barton of Cameron. He is a 1967 graduate of Yoe High School and is employed by the Texas Power and Light Co. in Cameron.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight silk organza over candlelight satin peau de soie featuring a semi-empire bodice accented with re-embroidered alcon lace and a high neckline and bishop sleeves, hand-trimmed with re-embroidered alcon lace. The chapel length train of candlelight silk organza over satin peau de soie was outlined with re-embroidered alcon lace and attached at the waist.

Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a headpiece of pearl petals. She wore a family heirloom necklace of imported Irish crystals and earrings that were a gift of the groom. Her flowers were a cascade of carnations and baby's breath and a white orchid entwined with pearls.

Mrs. Teresa Roesler of Denton was matron of honor and Miss Jackie Phillips of Cameron, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Melinda Parker of Cameron and Mrs. Cheryl Watkins of Arlington, both sisters of the bride. They wore apricot-satin peau de soie empire gowns and white picture hats and carried bouquets of apricot daisies and yellow carnations with baby's breath.

Melissa Watkins of Arlington, niece of the bride, was flower girl and Darren Watkins of Arlington, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Dr. Tommy Barton of McGregor served his twin brother as best man. Groomsmen were Raymond Watkins of Arlington, Warren Hillman and Ricky Hairston, both of Cameron. Ushers were William Parker and Joe Glenn Kirk, both of Cameron.

A reception was held in the Ft. Hood NCO Club. Members of the houseparty were Jan Willingham of Milam, cousin of the bride, Mary Lou Kornegay of Gause, Mrs. Jenny White, Mrs. Doris Kirk and Barbara Marburger, all of Cameron, Debbie Hosek of Rockdale and Mrs. Jeanette Smart of East Bernard, a cousin of the groom.

The bride's table, covered with white satin and a white net overskirt, was centered with an arrangement of apricot and white flowers. Silver appointments completed the setting.

After a wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple are making their home at 707 West Main in Cameron.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Williams and children are new owners of the Charles Chandler home at 705 East 14th Street and plan to move in this weekend. Dilworth - Stroup Recite Vows

St. Anne's Catholic Church of Houston, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Collene Marie Dilworth and Mr. Hilry Stedman Stroup on Saturday, July 28th, 1973, in a candlelight double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daniel Dilworth of 719 Hunters Grove, Houston, Texas. The groom is the son of Colonel and Mrs. Lake Wilson Stroup Jr., of 600 North Central Cameron, Texas, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Stedman of Cameron.

Miss Dilworth wore her mother's bridal gown. A fitted bodice of antique silk satin overlaid with Dutchess Rosepoint Lace featured a portrait neckline and long tapered sleeves edged with the lace enclosed with tiny bridal buttons. The sweeping skirt paneled with the lace fell to the floor and cascaded into a full sweeping cathedral train. The bride's veil was of illusion and rosepoint lace. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of White Roses, Stephanotis, and Baby's Breath.

Maid of Honor was Miss Kathleen Dilworth, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jack Hoover, and Mrs. Ward Walsh, sisters of the bride; Miss Sharon Parsley, cousin of the bride; Miss Patricia Stroup, sister of the groom; Mrs. Randy Wilson, Mrs. David Stewart, Miss Jane Conner, Miss Lorraine Oley, and Miss Elaine Robinson.

The bride's attendants wore dresses of pink flowered print organza with matching jackets. They carried baskets of various shades of pink flowers, with flowers scattered throughout their hair.

Best Man was Steve Smith of Cameron, Texas. Groomsmen were Rusty Kelly, Randy Wilson, Lonnie Walhall, L. W. Stroup, III, brother of the groom, Clint Averitte, Tommy Townsend, Bill Cook, Tom Cook, and Danny Monroe, cousin of the groom. Ushers were Mark Monroe and Ron Beeson, cousins of the groom, Robert S. Parsley, cousin of the bride, Jack Hoover, Jimmy Erwin and Harrison Cole.

Members of the houseparty were Pam Davidson, Laurie MacDonald, Carol Smith, Mrs. Rusty Keely, Dana Sheets, Mrs. Chuck Hook, Miss Ruth Putney, Miss Dilworth is a graduate of St. Agnes Academy, Houston, and the University of Texas, Austin. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta Sorority.

Mr. Stroup is a graduate of C. H. Yoe High School, Cameron, Texas, and the University of Texas, Austin. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity.

The couple will reside in Austin, Texas, after honeymooning in Hawaii.

Tamunuts Are Treated At Tea In Michigan

Tamunuts were a featured taste treat at a Texas tea staged recently in Dearborn, Mich.

The occasion was the annual conference of the National Federation of Press Women, Inc., which attracted several hundred women writers from all regions of the country.

Texas Press Women members were in charge of arrangements for the tea.

Through their chairman, Ann Faragher of Greenville, vice president for the Texas organization, the professional group appealed to Texas A&M University for a unique delicacy to serve at the tea hosted by the Lone Star State.

The request was relayed to the university's researchers in the Oilseed Products Center, who came to the rescue.

Dr. Carl M. Cater and Dr. Karl Mattil, both professors in the A&M Soil and Crop Sciences Department, and James T. Lawhon, assistant research engineer in the Oilseed Products division, and other staff members in the university's Food Protein Research and Development Center, sent the Tamunuts to Michigan. Mattil is also a joint employee with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station while Cater and Lawhon are with the Engineering Experiment Station.

Tamunuts (for Texas A&M University) are a high protein, nut-like food product developed by A&M's oilseed products researchers. Tamuglandless cottonseed kernels, obtained through crossbreeding. The product can be toasted as direct consumption snack, or used as a nut ingredient in baking. It is a slightly larger than uncooked rice grains in size, and the color somewhat resembles a peanut. Individually wrapped packages of the product were featured at the tea.

"The Tamunuts were the hit of the tea, and brochures about development of the product were eagerly taken by writers from throughout the country,"

Loved Child Appreciates Self Worth

COLLEGE STATION

When a loved child fails, the failure doesn't cut so deep that it makes him doubt his self worth, according to a family life education specialist.

"Being loved gives reassurance and encourages a person to try again," Dorothy Taylor with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, said.

Most researchers mention love as a "potent reality" markedly influencing human behavior, development and adjustment, she said.

"As a great prevention for maladjustment in children, love affords them a basic security, a feeling of belonging--to families, groups and the community."

"When love has created security in a child or individual, he develops a coping behavior for unpleasant situations."

In describing the nature of love, Miss Taylor said, "Love of an individual is to affirm and support that person-not to possess that person."

"Love grants a person the full right to his own unique humanness."

"Insecure, unloved children tend to show anxious, panicky symptom."

"The unloved child feels so much insecurity that he scarcely dares to try his wings in learning."

"He's usually so full of hostility that he rejects and refuses valuable experiences as a way of demonstrating his power to himself."

"While love doesn't cure badly maladjusted children, it is a great aid to their adjustment," Miss Taylor concluded.

Session

To Discuss Rural Power

AUSTIN — Today's energy situation and its relationship to rural Texas will be featured item of discussion during the 33rd annual meeting of Texas El- ectric Cooperatives, Inc., August 8-10 at the Sham- rock-Hilton, Houston.

Reflecting on the meeting theme, "Achieve the Impos- sible -- Again", J. R. Cobb, general manager of the Aus- tin based state association of rural electric coopera- tives pointed out that during the past three decades the rural electric leaders have achieved what many utility industry leaders said was impossible, electrifica- tion of rural America.

"We now face what many say is impossible, and that is to continue to provide adequate low cost power to our growing and developing rural Texas", Cobb com- mented.

Texas leaders scheduled on the program include Jim C. Langdon, Austin, Chair- man of the Texas Railroad Commission and Land Com- missioner Bob Armstrong. Langdon will discuss "The Energy Crisis As Seen by the Texas Railroad Com- mission" and Armstrong's topic is "Energy or Envir- onment? Why Not Both?" David A. Hamill, Admin- istrator of the Rural Elec- trification Administration, Washington, D. C., will re- view the national scope as he discusses "REA -- Help- ing Achieve the Impossible". REA provides financing for the rural systems along with the system's own Coopera- tive Finance Corporation that will be represented on the program by the Texas director, Johnnie Ammons, manager of Mid-West Elec- tric Cooperative, Roby.

Other highlights of the session will be the election of new directors and offi- cers and the election of a new president

The game of golf reveals something fundamental in the character of man. For when man builds a golf course he deliberately creates hazards for himself. He builds his fairways between clumps of trees . . . dots them with bunkers and sand traps . . . often terraces his greens with confusing slopes. The whole idea—to make things harder for himself!

It is this same trait in human character that constantly concerns our churches. Christianity doesn't teach that life can be—or should be—easy. It teaches us that hazards must challenge us to choose the right way. And it teaches men how to recover from their mistakes—with God's help.

For thousands who find themselves in one of the traps of life . . . our religion offers precious help and reassurance.

WINNING TROOP 752 took top place at Scout swim meet at Rockdale.

Troop 752 Wins Tejas Swim Meet

By Bill Henry

ROCKDALE

Under dark skies Cameron Troop 752 upended two time defending champion Troop 789 of Rockdale in Monday evening's annual Tejas District Swim Meet held at Rockdale city park.

Scoutmaster Felix Matula's troop used tremendous team depth, running up 47 points with five winners, two runnerups, two third places and four fourths. Troop 777 of Rockdale took second place with 30 points under the guidance of Milton Frei. Rudy Grossman's troop 789 and Cameron troop 791, guided by Ernest Moore tied for third with 27 points while Rockdale troop 790 under Willie Korenek captured fourth with 24 points.

Nearly 150 spectators were on hand to savor the action while keeping a watchful eye on Mother Nature's billowy skies which finally delivered a forewarned shower after the meet ended.

Jimmy Greene, district activity chairman, and Ron Derry, executive director, were quite pleased with the performances of the swimmers and the great competition that took place between the troops.

Cameron winners were: Non-swimmers breath holding - second, David Woods Troop 791; third, Steven Thompson, 752; fourth, Joe Posival, 752.

Shallow water foot race - first, Steve Anderle, 752; third, Glenn Glaser, 752; fourth, David Woods, 791. Beginners breath holding - Third, Ricky June, 791; fourth, Terry Cunningham, 752.

Beginners free style - first, Michael Schiller, 752; fourth, David Krenek, 752. Beginners under water swim - second, Mark Woods, 791; fourth, David Krenek, 752.

Swimmers side stroke - first, Allen Richardson, 752. Backstroke - first, Joe Mondrik, 752; third, David Raymond, 791.

Breast stroke - first, David Raymond, 791.

Medley relay - first, Cameron 752, Ricky Shaw, Allen Richardson and Joe Mondrik.

Under water swim - second, Allen Richardson, 752; third, David Raymond, 791.

Free style distance - second, Allen Richardson.

Sports - Murray-Go-Round

By Tom Murray

ALONG YEAR -

Steve Hedgepeth, Arkansas' Super Tight-end, punctuates the difference a year can make. "I believe," Steve beings, "everybody is trying to forget about last year... 1972 was a horrible year. It just dragged on forever. There's no pressure, for sure." Then, the 6-4 220 pound Memphis Mauler got down to business: "I heard a coach from another university say it would be tough (for the Razorbacks) over the first four games, but if Arkansas could just win two of the first four, it could be on its way."

The Razorbacks expect big action from Brison Manor, their 6-4, 260 pound Pratt Junior College defensive ga Junior College defensive tackle transfer. And, he expects the same: "I had two good years in junior college," the not-too-timid Jersey Giant was saying, "and I didn't want to lose that feeling. That's why I came to Arkansas. The Razorbacks have a real winning tradition."

Somebody is always talking about unusual sports names. And, yes Baylor's Tommy Turnipseed won't get too much mail intended for another fellow. But, have you heard about Randy Rhino, the Georgia Tech line-backer? ... All Conover, the Big Owl, calls his Rice safety Bruce Henley, "The best in the nation at his position."

ANOTER GAINNEY:

Baylor signed Hurdler Ronnie Gainey who led Monohans to the '73 class 3A State title. He's nephew to those Late Fifties world record setting Texas relay teams with Eddie Southern, Baytown's Wally Wilson and Bobby Whilden... TCU can light a shuck this fall with Frogs like Mike Luttrell, Ronnie Littleton and Full-back Ronnie Webb carrying the ball. The powerful Webb is a study in versatility. He was a pretty-fair lineman in the early days of football at Baytown Sterling.

Don't invite Mrs. James L. Dean and Aggie Fottball Coach Emory Ballard to the same party. Mrs. Dean got a little upset with the Aggies and said so when her son, Don, quit Aggieland. She told writers: "Don was unhappy at Texas A&M. It appeared they had no plans to use Don at quarterback this fall." Don Dean you recognize as the Sophomore of good talent, and slow feet, who quarterbacked the Ags last fall. Ol' Emory went out and recruited himself a couple Cadillacs named Glenn Shipman and Mike Jay and Mrs. Dean was reading the situation pretty accurately. Don Dean did not figure to break into the Aggie lineup this year. Nor the next.

Americans Taking Aim At 'New' Wicket Game

There is nothing like tripping over a forgotten wicket in an evening-darkened backyard to turn thoughts to croquet.

But part of the world has been thinking about it off and on for generations, and in America perhaps never more than now.

In backyards across the country, the equally thought-provoking neck-high clothesline has come down as more and more players -- men and women, boys and girls, young and old -- swing their mallets.

The lawn game of croquet had its heyday in the Victorian age. Since then it has revived now and then as leg-o' mutton sleeves and boaters gave way to flapper skirts and white flannels and finally, today, to sports shirts and shorts, the National Geographic Society says.

"SLAM-BANG VIGOR" Croquet, according to one serious student of the game, may have arrived again as an American family game which everyone can play and "often does with surprising slam-bang vigor -- if not vengeance."

Proper croquet, say the English, is played between tea breaks on a greensward more like a dead flat putting green than a crabgrass yard. It requires driving wooden balls through only six hoops, as they call them, compared to nine wickets in America.

"You're still in the Stone Age," they sniff good-naturedly. "We've arrived."

Tournament players swing a four-pound brass-bound mallet, the best supposedly made of heaviest wood by a London firm in business since 1795. Quality croquet balls, about four-inches across, are sand-filled boxwood.

Balls have to be knocked through hoops -- a croquet shot -- around a circuit, and sometimes along the way bang another ball out of position -- a roquet, suggesting the sound produced. STICKY WICKETS?

The balls fit tightly through the wickets or hoops 1/8th to 1/32nd of an inch clearance in championship play. One player says "It's like putting a marshmallow through a piggy bank."

What croquet lacks for not being a contact sport it more than makes up for in wordy philosophy:

"British croquet reflects centuries of diplomatic and administrative skills, the sense of fair play typified by British justice, and our national spirit of welcoming the new while preserving the best of the old," confides one fan.

On the other hand, "American croquet preserves the frontier spirit, incorporates the strength and cunning needed to conquer the wilderness."

Put another way, the American game, sometimes golf-like and played over a longer field, involves "a pioneer's passion to drive one's opponent into the rhododendrons."

The world's best croquet malletman is G. Nigel Aspinwall, a 26-year-old titleholder from England, where members of more than 700 clubs know a "wizard shot" when they see one.

Indians In Play-Offs Tonight

The Indians, Cameron's Little League Baseball champions, will face Carter Park of Ft. Worth in semifinal play-offs at Robinson Thursday (tonight).

The Indians, undefeated in season play, will be aided by league picks Steven Vrazel, Ronald Cobb and James Mondrik.

Riesel defated Robinson 2-0 Wednesday night in the first round of play-offs and Carter Park defeated Troy 9-5.

Gametime is 8:30 p.m. Thursday. Winners of the Cameron Carter Park game and the Meridian - Riesel match will meet for finals at 8:30 p.m. Friday.

County Girls Place In District Dress Revue

By Christine Laws

Nostalgic Fashions was the theme for the 1973 District 10 4-H Dress Revue held in Austin on July 27th at Town Hall in Hancock Center.

Mary Lee Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Graham of Thorndale represented Milam County in the senior division and placed first and will represent District 10 at the State Fair in October in Dallas. Janet Winterrowd of Taylor and Cheryl Wolbrueck of Austin also placed first and will represent District 10 also.

Mary Lee made and modeled a blue and white plaid flare leg cuffed pants with the new highrise waistband and front fly, a battle jacket of white acetate-cotton blend with sleeves, yoke and pockets of the plaid and a matching stitched-down box pleated skirt. Her accessories included a white body shirt, white braided sandals, white bracelet and a gold dog-collared.

She received a red ribbon on her records, a participation ribbon and a blue ribbon and gold 4-H bracelet for winning district.

Priscilla Lamere, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lamere of Minerva represented Milam County in the junior division. She received a red ribbon on her record book and a participation ribbon.

Priscilla made a pair of the new high-rise, cuffed flare leg pants of cotton-polyester blend. The blazer features short-banded sleeves gathered to the bodice a notched collar, pocket flaps and a vented back. Her accessories included blue platform sandals.

In the sub-junior division Rhonda Biar of Thorndale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Biar represented Milam County. She received a white ribbon on her records and a participation ribbon.

She made and modeled a 100% screen print crepe tunic in a floral design of blue, orange, green, pink and white. The tunic was sleeveless and featured a back zipper and rounded neckline. Her shorts were of 100% blue cotton kettletail. Her accessories were blue tennis shoes.

Milam County was in charge of the decorations and chairman of this committee was Rebecca Riola of Cameron. Also, working on this committee was Lorna Biar, Brenda Westerman, Rhonda Biar, Mrs. Charles Riola, Priscilla Lamere, Mrs. Ernest Vogelsang, Mrs. Billy Graham, Mrs. Lloyd Lamere and Mrs. Harold Biar. Rebecca and Lorna also served as hostesses.

Ricky Richter of Cameron, a member of the District 10 4-H Council served as Master of Ceremonies.

Good News For Aged

People are living longer and have more leisure time - so often put off during the rush of year spent at raising families and full-time jobs.
But in later years many people have less physical stamina. They may suffer a loss of appetite and withdrawal from the very activities they now have time for.
These symptoms may be partially due to a depletion of vitamin-mineral stores. To deal with this situation, scientists have come up with a wealth of products. One, for instance, helps people make the most of foods they eat to help renew vitality. It may spark the appetite, particularly when taken before meals. In cases of marginal vitamin-mineral shortages, it helps supplement the diet. Interestingly, to motivate people to take the liquid regularly, it has a tasty sherry wine base.

Wisely, doctors know that even this vitamin-mineral supplement called Gevraon is not a total answer. But with such supplements, plus the psychological stimulation of friends who encourage activity, the extra years and leisure people have can mean a lot of extra pleasure.

THIS LITTLE PIGGY GOES TO MARKET...

Years ago, a pig was a pig—they ate too much and were too fat; and so were we, if we ate too much pork! But, today's pig has changed his habits and it's time we changed ours, too.

Through selective production, today's pork has much less fat and is more nutritious. According to a 1972 study, the new, streamlined porker had 57% less fat, 36% fewer calories, and 22% more high-quality protein, than did his ancestor of twenty years ago. One 3½ ounce serving has approximately 250 calories and will supply about 45% of the daily adult requirement of protein, 35% of the iron, and is one of the richest natural sources of thiamin. Pork is also a good source of other vitamins. It is 96-98% digestible. Since pork now comes to the retail market with most of the fat trimmed away, these leaner cuts can be used in low-fat, low-calorie diets.

Newer cooking techniques have been developed whereby dry heat methods such as roasting and broiling, combined with marinades and glazes, yield a delicious, tasty treat. Pork should be cooked until it reaches an internal temperature of 170 degrees for the best results. The overall pink color should be gone. However, a little pink will sometimes show around the bones in a properly cooked roast. I suggest using a rack to allow the fat to drip away from the meat.

You can adapt your favorite recipes which combine uncooked pork with other ingredients for casserole dishes by trimming any remaining fat away, then browning the meat thoroughly before adding it to the other ingredients. When using spareribs, parboil them for about one hour in a little water. Then remove the liquid and combine with the other ingredients. When using either of these methods, reduce the original recipe's cooking time. Either of these techniques will result in a tastier, more nutritious product with fewer calories.
